

Groundbreaking NFT and Gaming Project “Krazy Karens” to Launch Next Month

Brisbane, Queensland Jan 24, 2022 (Issuewire.com) - Krazy Karens, a brand new NFT, and gaming project created by some of Australia’s most creative minds announced its official white-list sale, which will take place on 19th Feb 10:00 UTC. The project is one of the first of its kind, positioned at the crossroads of both online gaming and non-fungible tokens (NFTs) which grew wildly in 2021.

The majority of NFTs, like the Krazy Karens, live on the Ethereum blockchain so the world has been able to see the meteoric rise in value of some of these tradeable characters, such as the record-breaking Crypto Punk that recently sold for over $11 million. In the case of the Krazy Karens, the series is limited to just 6,666 completely unique Karen NFTs, each drawing inspiration from the now infamous internet meme concept of a “Karen”. Each NFT in the series is programmatically guaranteed to be one-of-a-kind through a combination of over 140 different traits including different hairstyles, accessories, outfits, and weapons.

Unlike many NFT projects, the Krazy Karen project is more than just a set of unique and potentially invaluable pieces of digital art. Owning a Krazy Karen grants you exclusive access to play the Krazy Karen Ultimate Fighter Game, a one-vs-one style game where users can wager and win Ethereum by fighting other Krazy Karens. The development team is still building out the game, but as indicated on its roadmap, the community will be guiding all decisions in forming the rules and governance.

The Krazy Karen development team is stacked with veteran talent from across industries from blockchain development experts to art and marketing specialists. According to members of the team, “we really wanted to create something that changes the landscape of the crypto world by infusing a fun and competitive gaming element. With input from our community, we are setting out to create the best crypto game ever implemented on the blockchain.”

Each Krazy Karen will cost 0.08 ETH, or about $286 at current pricing. Purchasers will own full rights and licenses for their unique avatar, and only about 20% of the Krazy Karens, or 1332, will be available during the white-list sale which is offered exclusively to members of the Discord group. For more information or to join the group, please visit <https://krazykarensnft.io>. Members who act on the white-list sale will also have access to unique community giveaways, raffles and competitions.

About Krazy Karens:

Krazy Karens is an NFT project based out of Australia. The team includes veteran developers, artists and crypto currency experts with extensive experience. It is one of the first NFT projects to incorporate a fighting game into its roadmap. The Krazy Karen Ultimate Fighter, which is a 1-vs-1 fighter game, will let users battle each other while wagering and winning Ethereum. The NFTs can be minted for 0.08 ETH and will be available in mid-February. For more information please visit <https://krazykarensnft.io>. You can also follow them on Instagram @KrazyKarensNFT, Twitter @KrazyKarensNFT, or on Discord.

Media Contact

Krazy Karens

krazykarens@hotmail.com

Source : Krazy Karens

See on IssueWire