kolkata, West bengal Feb 4, 2022 (Issuewire.com) - Widely known as the youngest app marketing and ASO expert in the world with top clients all over the world, Abhinav Ojha has released his debut novel "He was about to give up " which is his sixth book overall and his first novel. Abhinav is already a best-selling author of 3 books and founder and CEO of StyleOFF, a fashion brand listed under the top 10 fashion startups of India 2021 by various startups covering websites and magazines.

I wrote this motivational novel " He was about to give up " to inspire and motivate individuals not to give up in their lives no matter what the situation is, said Abhinav Ojha.

He further quoted a motivational line from his novel " If you give up struggling and end your pain and life, your pain ends from your life, but it does not end from ones who love you and a loving family and friends you leave behind; that pain mutates into unbearable pain like a virus do and ends few more lives too. Get up, face the struggles, learn to bear the pain, overcome troubles, be happy to sacrifice. Choose success whenever you lose; there shall not be any other options for you rather than fighting and fighting big." Great struggles make great stories."

Not revealing much about the story, Abhinav ojha said, he was about to give up is a story of two friends named Nayan and Sohan. He further states that it's a must-read novel for all those people who are struggling in their lives.

Abhinav Ojha at his age is an inspiration for so many individuals. A successful entrepreneur and author of six books and one of the youngest novelists of India.
