Eastern Carolina Cardiovascular believes their patients deserve access to the latest modern technological advances in preventing, detecting, and treating heart disease and related illnesses. Their goal is to afford the advantages of “big city” technology to the “hearts” of their community. They are founded on serving the patient with humility; and forging ahead with painstaking effort to remain accessible, fight complacency, and stand as protectors from the nemesis of heart disease.

Graduating with his medical degree from the University of Puerto Rico School of Medicine in 1982, Dr. Gallardo went on to complete his residency in internal medicine and fellowship in cardiovascular disease at the VA Caribbean Health System in 1985 and 1987, respectively. The ABIM is a physician-led, non-profit, independent evaluation organization driven by doctors who want to achieve higher standards for better care in a rapidly changing world.

Maintaining fellowship status, he is a Fellow of the American College of Cardiology (FACC) and is a Certified Cardiac Device Specialist (CCDS).
