New York City, New York Apr 5, 2022 (IssueWire.com) - A devoted cardiologist, Dr. Meyers tends to patients at Northwestern Memorial Hospital and serves as an Assistant Professor Emeritus at the Northwestern University Feinberg School of Medicine.

Northwestern Memorial Hospital is an academic medical center in the heart of downtown Chicago with physicians, surgeons, and caregivers representing nearly every medical specialty. It enjoys a teaching and service partnership with Northwestern University Feinberg School of Medicine, an integration that provides patients access to leading-edge clinical trials and fosters an environment of world-class patient care, academic inquiry, and innovative research.

Educated in the United States, Dr. Meyers received his medical degree from the Northwestern University Feinberg School of Medicine in 1961. He then went on to further his training by completing his residency in internal medicine at the Lakeside Veterans Affairs Medical Center in 1965, followed by his fellowship in cardiovascular disease at the Northwestern University, McGaw Medical Center (now Northwestern Memorial Hospital) in 1969.

In pursuit of clinical excellence, the doctor is board-certified in cardiovascular disease, interventional cardiology, and internal medicine by the American Board of Internal Medicine (ABIM). The ABIM is a physician-led, non-profit, independent evaluation organization driven by doctors who want to achieve higher standards for better care in a rapidly changing world.

Cardiology is a branch of medicine that deals with the disorders of the heart, as well as some parts of the circulatory system. The field includes medical diagnosis and treatment of congenital heart defects, coronary artery disease, heart failure, valvular heart disease, and electrophysiology. Cardiologists are doctors who diagnose, assess, and treat patients with diseases and defects of the heart and blood vessels (the cardiovascular system).
