Dentists, dentists' family members, medical professionals, and staff/team members of dental and medical offices throughout Ohio make Dr. Stoner and his established team their first choice when seeking advanced periodontal and dental implant care.

Throughout his academic career, Dr. Stoner attended The Ohio State University and received a Bachelor of Arts degree in Military History in 1993. He immediately entered The Ohio State University College of Dentistry where he received his Doctor of Dental Surgery degree in 1997 and began research in cancer identification and treatment. He then furthered his training and received his Certificate in Periodontology at The Ohio State University College of Dentistry Section of Periodontology's three-year Residency Training Program, a specialty devoted to expertise in dental implantology and periodontology therapeutics.

Simultaneous to his residency training, Dr. Stoner completed a Master's degree in Oral Surgery, Oral Pathology, and Oral Medicine for his continued research in the field of medicinal cancer therapy for which he was awarded a scholarship twice. This intensive research program focused on the utilization of thalidomide for the treatment of Kaposi's sarcoma and resulted in awards for two years consecutively by the American Cancer Society where he achieved Fellowship status—a distinguished honor reserved for only two people per year between dental, medical, Ph.D. and Master's students and pharmacists.

Following the completion of post-doctoral residency and graduate training in 2000, Dr. Stoner entered a one-year associateship in Charlotte, North Carolina, and Rock Hill, South Carolina for training in esthetics and periodontal plastic and dental implant surgeries. Following completion of the associateship, he returned to Dublin, Ohio in 2001 and opened his first office limited to periodontics and dental implant surgery. His success and recognition have allowed him to open offices in New Albany and Chillicothe locations as well, to better serve the communities that seek the most comprehensive and experienced care available in the most technologically-advanced settings possible.
