

The life and music career of Asakhe Nojoko, a successful South African singer-songwriter

South African singer-songwriter Asakhe Nojoko

Cape Town, Western Cape May 9, 2022 (Issuewire.com) - Asakhe Nojoko is a South African singer-songwriter. He was born on the 31st of March 2003 in Qumbu, Eastern Cape. He is currently living in Cape Town with his mother, Nokulunga.

Asakhe went to Noxolo Xauka for his primary education and went to Y2K College for his secondary education in Cape Town. He matriculated in 2021. Currently, he's pursuing his career in aviation. He wants to be an airline pilot someday.

Asakhe began his music career at a very young age. He started as a backup singer at his church and later moved into the music industry.

Asakhe is one of the most successful musicians in South Africa. For now, he has released four singles this year, "Oh Yes" being the latest.

Asakhe Nojoko wants to be a pilot and a musician. Being a pilot is his dream job. Also, being a musician is his calling from God. He wants to multitask between music and aviation at the same time. Currently, he is a student pilot at Rand Airport, Johannesburg.

Asakhe Nojoko's official Instagram

Asakhe Nojoko's official Facebook

Asakhe Nojoko's official tiktok

Media Contact

Nobuhle Zimande

andileapha@gmail.com

Source : Nobuhle Zimande

See on IssueWire