language and connective storyline are the secret sauce behind every novel. To add a distinctive element, he has raised a few questions that broaden the thought process of readers towards religion and God and their beliefs with love in different religions.

“Reading and daydreaming have boosted me into identifying the passion and enthusiasm to expose me to try Writing & Storytelling, I have achieved this by writing a book "Prayer At The Riverfront", which questions the use of religion, the existence of God, and the relevance of religions.” Love marriages, interfaith marriage, and the process of making it happen are the key elements of the novel that hook readers to the book.
