Restaurant Business Owners are entitled to a Favorable Employee Retention Credit in 2022

ERTC Credit Service

Get up to $26k per w2 employee

Flint, Michigan Sep 1, 2022 (Issuewire.com) - We at "My ERTC Refund" are pleased to announce today the launch of our employee retention tax credit refund platform called "myrefund.net". The employee retention tax credit made available by the Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security (CARES) Act is still available to restaurant businesses in 2022 and 2023 even though Congress decided to end it on September 30, 2021, three months earlier than anticipated. Some restaurants that previously felt they were ineligible for this tax credit may be allowed to use it. This potential opportunity resulted from the IRS's guidelines, which were published in August 2021—the month before the credit ended.

The employee retention credit initially permitted a 50% credit for wages paid for the second through fourth quarters of 2020, and then a 70% credit for wages paid for the first through third quarters of 2021, if the business either had its operations suspended due to COVID-19-related government orders or experienced a significant decline in gross receipts. Loans from the Paycheck Protection Program used to cover wages were not eligible for the credit. For the first through third quarters of 2021, this cap was increased to $7,000 per employee every quarter (for a total maximum credit of $21,000 per employee for 2021). The maximum credit for 2020 was $5,000 per employee. Payroll tax contributions made by the employer are reduced by the credit
