"Reviewed By Adanna Ora for Readers' Favorite

For many Christian believers who have received salvation and accepted Jesus into their lives, the challenge is remaining in their faith and maintaining a relationship with God. This problem is resolved by Nakia Trader in her book, What Do I Do Now? sub-titled Building a Solid Christian Foundation, which is a manual for both new and mature believers in their walk with God. Beginning with her early conversion to Christianity, Nakia recounts how her pastor's father verbally tortured and mocked her as a result. She also discusses the difficulties she encountered when she was younger and how knowing Christ has enabled her to get through them and improve herself. The author concludes her book by outlining the various concepts in Christianity, assisting people in receiving salvation, and addressing pertinent questions in Christianity.

The ideas in What Do I Do Now? have enhanced my spiritual life and growth as a Christian. It is underpinned by the fact that the Bible provides support for each premise. Nakia Trader uses quotes from seasoned Christians and preachers of the word. The book promotes forgiveness, love, and discipline. One can appreciate the author's fervent desire for people to know Christ. The wording is straightforward to comprehend. The author covers practically all the challenges that face Christians and offers workable solutions. What Do I Do Now? would be of great assistance to young and developing believers. It can also be used by church ministries for their foundational classes. It is encouraging to see books like this that would help improve one's spiritual life. Christians would find this book priceless."
