

There's a new Powerhouse in St. Louis

St. Louis, Missouri Oct 14, 2022 (Issuewire.com) - St.Louis powerhouse independent emcee Tef Poe is attempting to jumpstart his latest endeavor — Crow Life Records. In real life, Tef Poe has accumulated enough accolades to consider himself the King of the Underground. Most recently he was gifted a city-wide proclamation by St.Louis Mayor Jones.

His music is so raw gritty and truthful it's only right he merged forces with G4M Frankco and music producer Deuce. The pairing created the song "Real Life" — a harmonious ode to reality rap. Frankco is the owner of G4M entertainment, he's also the CEO/ founder of Starrstruck Studios where "Real Life" was written and recorded. "Everything is in-house with us right now we even filmed a portion of the music video at the studio. We have everything we need. We can compete with anybody in the music industry" Poe says.

Frankco is from Franklin County and has managed to use his life experiences to his favor. He says this latest track is just a reflection of the growth. "In real life, Tef Poe is a legend but we both are casual, everyday bosses. Poe has worked with the best, us working together is his way of continuing to raise the bar."

Frankco continues " We wake up every day, and handle our business. That's on the mic and in the boardroom where the real decisions are being made in real life!! We got together to show the streets you can be successful and build with your brothers...this is reality music!"

"Real Life" drops tonight on all digital music platforms.

Poe and Frankco are both represented by Jay Stretch of StretchedOut Management.
