The track's composer, Phunko Friction & Akhilesh Gogu, is only 32 years old, but already his infectious melodies are catching people's attention. The young artist from PF's new single, "Runaway," is expected to advance his or her career significantly.

Raghav Adit is producing an upbeat and uplifting sound that can be enjoyed all year long with current inspirations from artists like Alesso, Zedd, and even Martin Garix. Producer Raghav Adit and drummer Phunko Friction worked together to create the strummed samples, Synth, and drum rhythm.

The name Raghav Adit should be mentioned because of the music. Speaking about the song, he explains "Runaway" Distrokid is about a relationship at a crossroads when we must choose different life courses but will ultimately reunite. I allowed my ideas to flow, and in the middle of the night at my home studio, I freestyled the words for this song. That evening, the song came together and was completed.

"Runaway" was created there, just like the majority of My Beautiful Dark Twisted Fantasy.

Raghav hails from a household where his mother is a classical vocalist and his father is a director. According to him, he produces and programs music in genres including modern R&B, pop, blues, electro-funk, and future bass. He says, "Learning or playing original music is self-happiness for me," and adds that his dream is to be signed up by a major record label, all while anticipating the release of their new single, Vishwam. Making music is a never-ending love story, Sumanth continues. They both warn that there will be more entertaining originals coming.
