What is an International Freight Forwarding Company?

As we all know, the heart of the global trade market is the import and export of goods; an international freight forwarding company manages the pulse of this process.

Simply, international freight forwarders like SLR shipping are travel agents for your cargo. We coordinate transportation details between global buyers and sellers so that the required goods can reach their destination.

What are the different types of freight?

Freight refers to the method of shipping goods. There are four significant types of freight:

- Air Freight
- Sea Freight / Ocean Freight / Cargo Ship
- Rail Freight
- Road Freight

How Does an International Freight Forwarding Company work?

It's essential to observe that, in most cases, global freight forwarders do not own the steamships, airplanes, or vans that they use to move goods or cargo and freight around the globe.

This brings us lower back to the journey agent analogy. Even considerable players in the freight forwarding process do not operate their shipment vessels; instead, they act as go-betweens for multiple events in exporting and uploading items.

Working with a freight forwarder simplifies topics for the importer or consumer because the forwarding employer, like a tour agent, manages the responsibility of being the primary point of touch for the whole manner.

The international freight forwarding company delivers the delivery's information from beginning to completion, monitoring the cargo vessel's arrival and contacting trucking or airline corporations to ensure timely pickup and arrival. The freight forwarding associate coordinates these details and communicates with clients, therefore. Typically, the process of freight forwarding or logistics unfolds in ten stages.

The Freight Forwarding Process in a nutshell:

- Determine Credit
- Establish Mode of Transportation
- Determine the Weight and Dimensions (or Containers Needed)
- Review Documentation
- Schedule Transportation
- Cut Bills of Lading
- Monitor the Cargo's Movement
- Contact the Notify Party When Cargo Reaches Destination
- Arrange for Delivery to Final Destination
- Invoice the Client
