Glendale, California Dec 6, 2022 (IssueWire.com) - The leading crypto law firm Bulldog Law today announced that, following the growing incidence of crypto litigations, they have further stepped up their efforts and will be offering free initial consultation to their prospective clients on everything related to Cryptocurrency Legal Compliance, Civil And Criminal Defense.

The founders of Bulldog Law are experts in blockchain and cryptocurrency law and have vast experience in dealing with complicated regulations enforced by different agencies and overlapping international, national, and state laws and regulations.

Mario Tafur, the Senior Lawyer at Bulldog Law, said:

"Cryptocurrency is a fast-growing segment of the economic landscape. With this exponential growth comes great volatility – not to mention gaps and grey areas in the legal framework that can come into play for those launching or operating their businesses as well as for those mining, holding, purchasing, and selling cryptocurrency. At Bulldog Law, our legal team is at the forefront of helping clients navigate these legal implications."

"We are focused on continuing to provide our clients with top-quality representation and are proud of the firm's accomplishments to date," Mario Tafur added.

Attorneys at Bulldog Law are highly experienced in blockchain technology and platforms, and different kinds of digital currencies and tokens, including Bitcoin, Ethereum, Tezos, Litecoin, Tether, XRP (Ripple), BNB, Cardano, Polygon, and Solana.
