

Sales Spike After Presence™ Appears in “Today” Show Segment

Tech Expert Jennifer Jolly Includes Inspiration Display in Gift Roundup Driving Record Sales

Los Angeles, California Dec 8, 2022 (Issuewire.com) - Los Angeles-based Tech Company Daily Rays® hits record-breaking sales - selling 614 units in less than 24 hours after Tech Expert Jennifer Jolly featured Presence on NBC’s “Today” Show for a holiday gifting segment on the morning of December 6th.

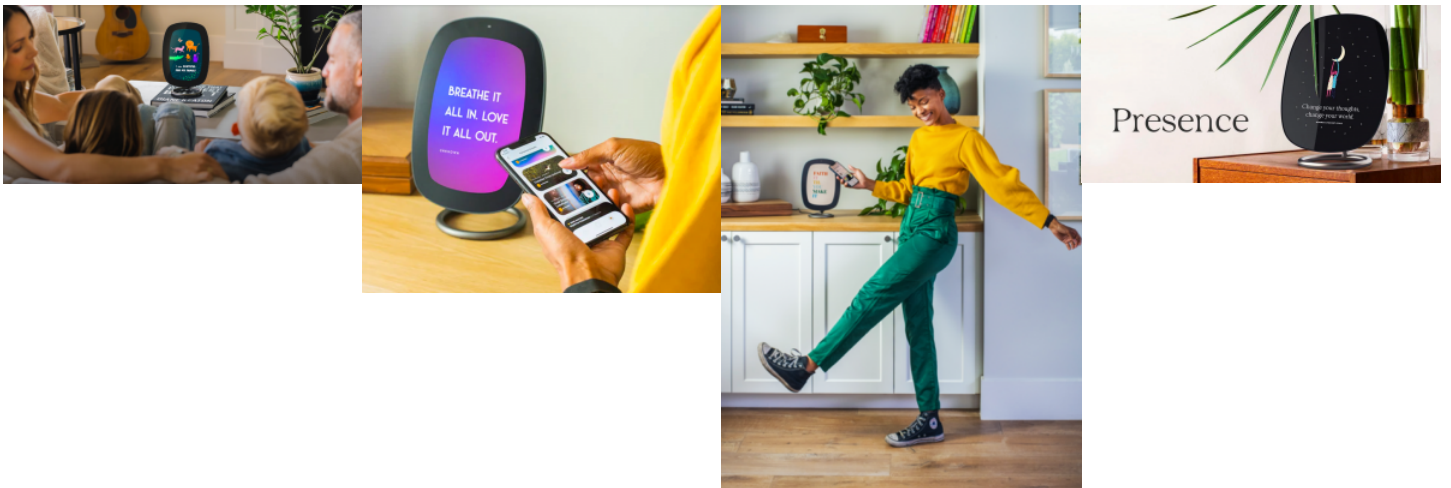

It was difficult to say which was more exciting for the Presence team: seeing sales reach an unprecedented level or their Inspiration Display appearing on the nationally beloved morning show alongside fan favorites Dylan Dryer, Sheinelle Jones, and Jill Martin.

Jolly appeared on the “Today” show for a fun-filled roundup of the season’s hottest tech gifts including Presence in the impressive group. “This right here, is easily one of my top 5 favorite gadgets ever!” said the creator of Techish.com when she introduced the Presence device making its first national television debut. Presence is the world’s first mental well-being display, designed to turn negative thought patterns into positivity and mindfulness. A beautifully designed technology display that makes a terrific holiday gift that is sure to look great in any room, Presence streams daily affirmations and science-backed positive psychology to your home. No apps to open, and no feeds to scroll through to get the motivational content you need. Instead, Presence becomes a prominent part of your daily environment, empowering you to go out and achieve greatness.

Orders began rolling in right as the segment aired on the east coast and continued throughout the day. “Right away it was clear that customers were ordering multiple devices to possibly save for themselves as well as to place under the trees this holiday,” said Presence creator Ashley Saye. “It feels really amazing knowing that hundreds and hundreds of people will get to experience our vision for a more empowered and inspired future thanks to Presence and the “Today” show. I can’t thank Jennifer Jolly enough for her support.”
