

Lunar New Year vs Chinese New Year Guide Released by Luxury under Budget

San Diego, California Jan 13, 2023 (IssueWire.com) - Luxury Under Budget, a leading travel blog for planning luxury travel on a budget, has recently published a comprehensive guide comparing and contrasting Lunar New Year and Chinese New Year. The guide explores the history, customs, and celebrations of the events and provides helpful tips for travelers looking to make the most of their Lunar New Year or Chinese New Year experience.

As Lunar New Year and Chinese New Year celebrations approach, Luxury Under Budget explains the subtle, yet important distinctions between these two events. Lunar New Year, a holiday that marks the beginning of the year in the lunar calendar, is celebrated all over Asia, including in countries like China, Vietnam, and South Korea. Chinese New Year, on the other hand, is celebrated exclusively in China and other Chinese communities.

The guide delves into the differences between the Lunar and Chinese New Year, ensuring that readers can understand the nuances of these two festive celebrations. It also explores different traditions celebrated by Asian cultures during the holiday, such as Vietnamese New Year traditions and Korean New Year celebrations.

Luxury Under Budget is committed to helping travelers explore the world on a budget. This guide is just one of many that the blog has published to help travelers make the most of their time abroad and experience different cultures.
