Willetton, Jan 17, 2023 (IssueWire.com) - Get ready to embrace the authentic music flavours of Australia with O'Neill Fernandes and his latest musical project. The album is titled 'My Island Home' which offers a total of 20 amazing renditions of Australian music hits. This is the sixth part of O'Neil's series of musical creations that are dedicated as a tribute to the greatest Australian Bands and Artists of all time. This project started with the 1st volume which is known as 'Sounds of Then...This is Australia'. This is then followed by 2nd volume 'True Blue', 3rd volume 'Howzat', 4th volume 'Down Under', and the 5th volume 'G'Day G'Day'. This sixth volume is successfully etching another notch in O'Neil's prolific music career.

There are many wonderful instrumental covers in the album 'My Island Home' such as the title track 'My Island Home' which was originally recorded by the Warumpi Band in 1986. Similarly, there is another powerful cover named 'Ooh Aah ... Just a Little Bit', a debut solo single by Australian singer Gina G. Other beautiful covers include 'Have You Never Been Mellow', originally sung by Olivia Newton-John, The Seekers' song 'Georgy Girl', M.P.D Limited's song 'Little Boy Sad', INXS' 'What You Need', and the list goes on. The album offers a dynamic taste of Australian music of all eras starting from the '60s to the modern age. The diversified essence only shows the musical versatility of this talented Pop music artist from Perth.

Hailing from Australia, this multi-faceted music artist is spreading his creative aura to every corner of the world. Previous musical projects released by O'Neil did not fail to captivate the audience, such as 'An Aussie Xmas', 'Heart Of My Heart', etc to name some. Each album offers a distinctively different flavour from the another. Follow O'Neill Fernandes on SoundCloud to enjoy his music. Get to know more on his Facebook and LinkedIn profiles.
