

Grexie brings to fruition the future internet

Everyone needs an IP address. IPv6 gives the world 2^{128} address. Grexie allows the private address range in IPv6 to be consumed 8 billion times, in order to free the world from the bounds of the internet.

Dubai, United Arab Emirates Apr 12, 2023 (IssueWire.com) - Grexie is promising to bring all people a new way of doing software, online, offline, and all around the world.

They distribute to the world, what peer-to-peer networking has brought into being.

For over 20 years, networks like Napster, if you remember it, and its successors, have allowed for the proliferation of technologies such as distributed hash tables and peer-to-peer clouds.

Grexie is the Amazon Web Services, the Google Cloud, of the peer-to-peer.

They bring the blockchain, to the peer-to-peer internet.

Everything they've done, is to disencumber the modern internet, which is proliferated with software and tools, such as those provided by SaaS (Software as a Service) and its various pseudonyms, from the lock-in that these networks force people into.

Just look at Instagram.

One of the products they've built, is a Markdown, JavaScript centric, replacement for Instagram, based on the evolution of Timoshī Santamura's online diary, the Diary of Wisdom and Love.

Timoshī is this person's pseudonym, and its relation to Satoshi is obvious.

What Timoshī is purporting, is they have the future of the world, in their hands.

We're not just talking about the future internet, not even about the world's wealth, but literally, Jesus Christ Himself, coming to change the world, much as reported by all of Hollywood in the days of the end.

But they don't seem to relate to an apocalypse, as we've understood before, but instead a world in harmony and peace.

Their journey to world fame began it seems in 2012, when we all listened to the prophecies of the Incas, the eschatological mesoamerican idea which saw the end of this year. But there it was, he entered a lifetime of hell, believing in the Unknown.

From there he seems to have journeyed through the internet of all things, and developed software right, left, and centre, which replaces pretty much everything we know of the internet.

Its starter product is quite unclear, is it an AWS of Blockchain? Is it a decentralised social network like Instagram come Diaspora come to Mastodon? We have no idea what this man plans.

He just seems to be with Allah, the Highest, taking over the world.

Watch next, what he's about to do, a stalker he seemed to be, last year, and now he plans world domination.

Is he Hitler reincarnate? satan itself maybe?

All we know is we want to see more from Grexie changing the way we do it!!!
