

Rockstar Agent Releases Custom Courses Feature on Real Estate Coaching Platform

Rockstar Agent released a new version of its turn-key real estate coaching platform that now includes the ability for users to add their own custom courses to the platform.

The screenshot displays the 'Edit Course' interface for a course titled 'New Agent - test course'. The course is 0% complete. The main content area shows a video titled 'Welcome from Rob and Janie!' with the text 'Welcome from your leadership!' and 'How to...'. The video player shows a man speaking with a large white arrow pointing to the text 'Create your Facebook page NOW..'. The interface includes a 'Back' button, 'Preview', 'Save Draft', and 'Publish Changes' buttons. A 'Complete and Continue' button is also visible.

Now Available to Real Estate Offices in the US and Canada

Rockstar Agent (RockstarAgent.com) released a new version of its turn-key real estate coaching platform that now includes the ability for mentors, coaches and companies to develop and upload custom courses. With over 40 turn-key real estate courses already available for coaches and companies, now users can develop and upload their own exclusive courses for their agents. Courses can include video, audio files, checklists and downloadable materials. The courses are only viewable by the agents and locations that are chosen by the user and can be changed at any time.

The new custom course update allows Coaches, Managers, and Company Leaders to develop and launch their own courses in addition to the turn-key courses already provided with the Rockstar Agent platform. The custom courses allow a coach or mentor to track the progress through each module and offer to coach based on what an agent needs at that time in their career. The new feature can be used for onboarding, contract training, company specific training and any additional training or coaching that a company may need.

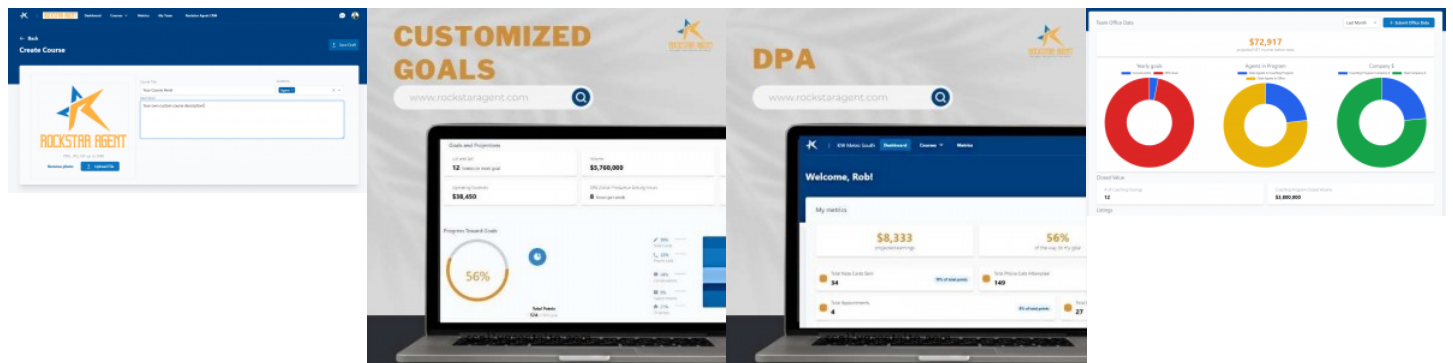

Rockstar Agent is the Real Estate Industry's only all-inclusive coaching platform designed to help real estate offices offer customizable coaching and training to agents in their offices. The platform has over 400 videos with customizable training materials to fit any level of a real estate agent, from the brand-new agent to those building a high-producing sales team.

“Rockstar Agent has been in development for 17 years and is the only platform of its kind in real estate. It has proven training any real estate office can leverage to give them a coaching program that sets them apart from their competition in that area. We have seen production in 1 office group that added over $178 million in new sales with brand new agents in the first year of using this platform.” Rob Tucker, Founder, and CEO

Rockstar Agent LLC was started in 2005 as a training and coaching program to help grow real estate teams. Over the past 18 years, the program has grown into a turnkey coaching platform that can be implemented and leveraged by any real estate office to increase agents’ production and add profit to the company. The platform tracks agent activities using a proprietary system that can accurately predict agent results as well as overall office productivity. Rockstar Agent provides live training for offices that agents can access in addition to over 400 videos and over 500 downloadable and customizable support materials for all levels of agent production.
