The track comes with original compositions that Habashi wrote himself for the women that brought him into this world. This track was dedicated especially to his mother, together celebrating International Mother's Day 2023.

As the producer says, the track is a mix of dreamy ambiance, soulful rhythms, and powerful healing energy that make for an epic electronic musical journey. With his unique imagination feel and write a powerful melody that will make you feel emotionally uplifted.

The Musical Influences and Style of Habashi's Production

Habashi's style of production has been heavily influenced by his Middle Eastern roots. He loves to experiment with Yemeni oriental sound in his production. His previous tracks, "I Am King, Orientalism, Christine, and The Pyramid" contains traditional Arabic instruments and textures that will boost your emotional stability.

Habashi's sound is also defined by his use of intricate rhythms and melodies combined with heavy basslines that provide a distinct edge to each track. Whether it's a smooth melodic synthesizer or punchy basslines combined with subtle vocal samples, each track is unique in its own right.

What sets Habashi apart from other producers is his ability to consistently use mesmeric elements as well as vocal samples in his tracks that add an extra level of texture and emotional depth. There's something special in every one of his records that makes them all unique, yet still allowing his trademark sound to shine through perfectly on each one.

Habashi does things differently with his music, and his latest release is no exception. With Enchanted Love, Habashi has created an uplifting and energizing sound, one that combines old-school vibes with modern production techniques. His goal? To capture the energy of music, and to create something that will make you feel alive.
