The song "No Pressure" by M.G Hkh (Ft. Mandala) seems to convey a message of resilience, self-belief, and determination in the face of challenges and pressure. The repetition of the phrase "No pressure hazvidi, Dzungu zvichaita bhoo" throughout the song suggests an assertion of independence and the refusal to succumb to external pressures.

The verses touch upon various themes, including the idea of staying true to oneself and not being swayed by negative influences. The lyrics mention the desire to avoid selling one's soul to the devil and the recognition that the devil is a liar. This could symbolize the temptation to compromise one's values or integrity for personal gain.

The lyrics also mention the importance of hard work, prayer, and the pursuit of success. Despite the struggles and challenges faced, there is a determination to keep pushing forward and never settle for less. The repetition of the lines "I will never return back" and "I will never stop pray" reinforces this sense of perseverance and determination.

Overall, "No Pressure" encourages listeners to stay focused, work hard, and remain resilient in the pursuit of their goals, refusing to let external pressure or negative influences hinder their progress
