A local favorite, the band has played across the region to include Ram's Head Shore House, Mother's Peninsula Grille, Reckless Shepherd, Rehoboth Ale House, Old Bowie Town Grille, Stand and Joe's Saloon West, Bare Bones Bar and Grill, Nottingham's Tavern, and the Guinness Open Gate Brewery. A fan of the band said, "One of the best bands I have ever heard! If you love great live classic rock and blues you will love them."

Tony Stramella (Hanover, MD), the band's namesake and lead guitarist, is a Guitar Center Blues Master Grand Finalist who played on stage with blues great Joe Bonamassa at the Mint, in Los Angeles. He's been performing for crowds for over 40 years. The band also features Gee Owens (Easton, MD), who delivers powerful, heartfelt vocals and plays keyboards; Paul Stramella (Arnold, MD), an Army Veteran who was a show manager for The U.S. Army Band and most recently served as stage manager for Wolf Trap; and Dennis Bartko (Ellicott City, MD) on drums.

"We're excited to be back in Annapolis and playing at the 55th annual Maryland Seafood Festival," said Tony. "A great city, great food, and great music -- we look forward to seeing everyone there!"
