Sydney, New South Wales Sep 3, 2023 (Issuewire.com) - ai-bible has recently been released, it lets you dive deep into the bible without any ads, paid promotions or in-app purchases. Rather than being a gimmicky ai tool, ai-bible has been designed ergonomically to make a fast and seamless way for you to get straight into the bible without having to login, or make your way through any other obstacle to get into the bible. It's contextual outlines and cross references let you understand about each chapter you are navigating into as you go there, and every line expands to give you the why, what, where, when and why of any verse. This alone would be enough to make it a great choice as a pocket bible, but it goes further and adds a chat feature where contextual cross references are highlighted to let you dive into the bible straight from the chat.

ai-bible uses the Berean bible kindly produced by Bible Hub, and its in-app encyclopaedia utilises public domain sources of information to ensure it can be provided for free. As the ai answers questions, the questions and answers are stored without identification so that they can be reviewed and the any answers that are off can be adjusted to be more correct in line with a non-cessationist reformed position, allowing for common interpretational differences.

Apps are available for Android, iOS and there is a web version also. For a quick demonstration video check here.
