Get to know Clinical Social Worker, Rachel Felton, who serves patients throughout the State of Washington.

New York City, New York Dec 6, 2023 (IssueWire.com) - Rachel is a dedicated clinical social worker currently working as a telehealth provider with Agape Health Initiatives and Mindful Therapy Group, servicing individuals living within the State of Washington. She specializes in helping her clients learn to manage their emotions, process the past to be free from trauma, and live a fruitful and high-quality future.

Drawing on her personal experiences as a BIPOC and LGBTQ+ individual, she skillfully navigates the complex terrain of addiction, trauma, and healing. By integrating her own journey into her practice, she establishes a profound connection with her clients, offering them a unique and empathetic perspective.

Currently pursuing a Doctorate in Social Work (DSW) at the University of Southern California, Rachel is on track to graduate with the class of 2026. This academic pursuit demonstrates her commitment to continuous learning and furthering her expertise in the field. Rachel's academic journey, combined with her rich practical experience, positions her as a valuable asset in the realm of mental health.

Her journey as a mental health professional has seen her contribute significantly to various community-based clinical settings, including Crisis Connections, Common Spirit, King Co Mobile Crisis Team, and the University of WA Medical Center.

Social work is an academic discipline and profession that concerns itself with individuals, families, groups, and communities in an effort to enhance social functioning and overall well-being. A licensed clinical social worker (LCSW) works with patients in order to help them deal with issues involving mental and emotional health. There are a wide variety of specializations the LCSW can focus on, including mental health issues, substance abuse, public health, school social work, medical social work, marriage counseling, or children and family therapy.
