He was practicing as a Cardiology Hospitalist until 2020 at Northwestern Memorial Hospital, a nationally ranked academic medical center located on Northwestern University's Chicago campus in Streeterville, Chicago, Illinois.

Inspired by the cardiologists who saved his father's life from heart disease at a very young age, he was motivated to pursue a medical career to give back to the community. With a broad educational background, Dr. Balasubramanian earned his Bachelor of Medicine, Bachelor of Surgery Degree from Thanjavur Medical College in India in 2011. Subsequently, he relocated to the United States, pursuing his residency in Internal medicine at John H. Stroger, Jr. Hospital of Cook County in Chicago from 2015 to 2018.

Building upon his foundation, Dr. Balasubramanian attained his Master of Science Degree in Clinical Investigations/Research from Northwestern University in 2020.

An authority in his field, the doctor is board certified in both Cardiovascular disease and Internal Medicine by the American Board of Internal Medicine (ABIM). The ABIM is a physician-led, non-profit, independent evaluation organization driven by doctors who want to achieve higher standards for better care in a rapidly changing world. He is also board certified in Adult Echocardiogram and Nuclear Cardiology specialities.

Among his professional affiliations, Dr. Balasubramanian is an active member of the American College of Cardiology, the American Heart Association, the Society for Cardiovascular Magnetic Resonance, the Society of Cardiovascular Computed Tomography, the American Society of Echocardiography, and the American Society of Nuclear Cardiology.

Actively contributing to advancements in cardiology, Dr. Balasubramanian's research interests encompass diverse areas such as cardiac interventional procedures, advanced cardiac imaging techniques and medical therapy with a focus on topics like coronary artery disease, transcatheter mitral valve repair and aortic valve replacement, cardiac amyloidosis and the impact of specific cardiac medications on patient outcomes.

Cardiology is a branch of medicine that deals with the disorders of the heart, as well as some parts of the circulatory system. The field includes medical diagnosis and treatment of congenital heart defects, coronary artery disease, heart failure, valvular heart disease, and electrophysiology. Cardiologists are doctors who diagnose, assess, and treat patients with diseases and defects of the heart and blood vessels (the cardiovascular system).

Dr. Balasubramanian attributes his achievements to his deep-rooted dedication to patient care, his fervor for scientific exploration and research, and his genuine passion for cardiology. He has showcased his expertise through oral and poster presentations at numerous national and international scientific cardiology conferences.

Beyond his medical endeavors, Dr. Balasubramanian finds joy in swimming, playing ping pong, cherishing moments with his children and indulging in South Indian cooking. His preferred destinations for relaxation span from the vibrant landscapes of India to the serene National Parks of the United States and the cultural richness of Europe. He also enjoys staying abreast of the latest developments in cardiology through his favorite esteemed publications like the Journal of American College of Cardiology, Circulation and Current Problems in Cardiology.
