Scott D. Stevenson is a highly accomplished Physician Assistant with a wealth of experience in the field of trauma and surgical critical care. With more than a decade of working in the medical profession, he has earned a reputation for providing exceptional healthcare services to his patients.

Scott holds a bachelor's degree from the prestigious Hahnemann University, where he gained a deep understanding of the complexities of the medical field. He then received his post-graduate residency training at the renowned Norwalk Yale, where he honed his skills in trauma and surgical critical care.

Throughout his career, Scott has demonstrated an unwavering commitment to patient care, and his expertise has made him a highly respected member of the medical community. He is dedicated to ensuring that his patients receive the highest quality of care and has a proven track record of achieving excellent outcomes.

As a dedicated member of the American Academy of Physician Assistants (AAPA) and the Delaware Academy of Physician Assistants (CAPA), Scott remains at the forefront of advancements in medical practices and technologies. His continuous pursuit of knowledge ensures that he delivers the highest standard of care to his patients.

Scott utilized his expertise and skills to contribute to the national disaster response efforts in Haiti, Puerto Rico, Texas, Arizona, Kentucky, and Alaska. He worked for the National Disaster Medical System (NDMS) and the Administration for Strategic Preparedness and Response (ASPR) at the US Department of Health and Human Services to provide support during times of crisis. Scott's contributions were invaluable in ensuring that the disaster response efforts were efficient, effective, and well-coordinated. His dedication and commitment to helping those affected by disasters are truly commendable.

Scott credits his achievements to the constant support of his caring family and the priceless guidance of his mentors, including Dr. Glenn Tinkoff, Dr. John Madden, Dr. Gerald Fulda, Dr. Frederick Giberson, Dr. Steve Johnson, and Dr. Michael Kalina. Their mentorship has been crucial in influencing his career and instilling in him a strong drive to provide excellent patient care.

Scott's passion for his family transcends his professional life. He finds immense joy and solace in spending quality time with them. When he's not exploring the great outdoors with his children and grandchildren, they indulge in a variety of other activities that strengthen their familial bond. For Scott, family is not just a priority, it's the bedrock of his life.

Scott is a highly motivated individual who is excited about the future prospects that lie ahead. He is looking forward to utilizing his skills and vast experience in a small hospital setting located in underserved areas. Scott's unwavering dedication to serving those in need is reflected in his deep commitment to making a meaningful and positive impact on patient outcomes and community health. He believes in providing patient-centered care that is tailored to the unique needs of each individual.
