New York City, New York May 7, 2024 (IssueWire.com) - In a thought-provoking new book, Dr. Dorris S. Woods delves into the critical and timely topic of reproductive rights and the recent overturning of Roe V. Wade. Titled "Abortion and the Senseless Assault on Reproductive Rights" this book challenges the Gross Judicial ignorance, willful arrogance, and lack of court ethics that have led to a tumultuous period for women's rights in America.

With the potential long-term and indelible consequences of the overturning of Roe V. Wade looming over American society, Dr. Woods presents a compelling argument against the unnecessary "fixing" of a system that was working effectively. She highlights the chaos, confusion, inconvenience, and trauma that women seeking abortions have had to endure as a result of this decision.

One of the key points addressed in the book is the importance of allowing medical decisions to remain in the hands of physicians, particularly when the viability of the embryo necessitates an abortion. Dr. Woods passionately argues that this shift in power is a dangerous precedent that must be challenged.

Furthermore, "Abortion and the Senseless Assault on Reproductive Rights" sheds light on the issue of poor ethics within the Supreme Court and how arrogance played a role in the decision to overturn Roe V. Wade. Dr. Woods calls for a reevaluation of the ethical standards upheld by the highest court in the land to ensure that justice and fairness prevail.

This book is a must-read for anyone interested in understanding the complexities of reproductive rights, the implications of recent judicial decisions, and the urgent need to protect women's access to safe and legal abortion. Dr. Dorris S. Woods offers a compelling and insightful analysis that will spark important conversations and inspire action.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Dorris Woods is a native of Mississippi. After graduating at the top of her high school class, she left to go to work in Des Moines, Iowa. Her family did not have money for college.

After working for about a year, her break came when cousin Carrie told her about a nursing school in Atlanta, Georgia. She applied and was accepted to the Grady Memorial Hospital School of Nursing. She likes the quote: "Atlanta Can't Live Without Grady".

Dr. Woods began her career as a pediatric charge nurse at Grady. After completing state board exams, she went to work at Children's Hospital in Chicago in Nursing Administration. She left after two years to attend Indiana University in Bloomington, where she earned a Bachelor of Science degree in nursing/psychology. It was another recommendation by Cousin Carrie. She left Indiana and married her husband, Burton in California.

Since that time, she has earned a second Bachelor of Science degree in psychology from NYU, a Master's degree in Counseling at Cal State University, a double Master's degree at UCLA, one in pediatrics/administration, the other in mental health. She later earned a doctorate from Claremont Graduate University. Post-doctoral work was completed at UCLA. She "loves the classroom". She ranks at the eight-eight percentile of people educated in America.

Dr. Woods began her writing with the book, Breaking Point: Fighting to End American's Teenage Suicide Epidemic! which was based on her doctoral dissertation research. She has written many articles on the topic and conducted workshops. Her second book, How to Prevent Diabetes – I Beat it and You Can, Too! was written to inform a large public unsuspecting of the problems and a solution. Her third book, also written in the public interest, was motivated by the egregious act of overturning Roe v. Wade which has caused undue trauma to women and taken medical decisions out of the hands of physicians.

Dr. Woods is a widow. She is the mother of three children and lives in Culver City, California.
