About the Author

Dr. Elliott Q. Gomez began his distinguished military career by enlisting in the United States Marine Corps in February 1984 and furthering his training at the Administrative Clerk Course at Camp Pendleton, California. His service included assignments in Okinawa, Japan, with the 3rd Battalion, 12th Marines S-1, and at Marine Corps Air Station El Toro in California. After four years, he transitioned to the Puerto Rico Army National Guard as a Personnel Services Noncommissioned Officer. In 1994 he earned a commission as a Second Lieutenant in the United States Army Adjutant General Corps. Throughout his 27 years of combined military service, Dr. Gomez held pivotal roles, including human resources officer, operations officer, and various command positions, overseeing joint-service military and civilian personnel. Retiring in 2011, he embarked on a second career in academia as the lead business professor at Hallmark University, where he imparts his vast knowledge in leadership and management. Dr. Gomez holds a bachelor's degree in criminal justice, two master's degrees in human resources development and computer resources information management, and a doctorate in organization and management, with a leadership focus. He is also the author of two books: "You Are What You Say - Not How You Say It" and "Elevate Your Leadership Skills: Ten Practices to Lead with Purpose and Passion."
