

Brad Johnson, MD, FAAD: Leading Dermatologist at Virginia Dermatology and Skin Cancer Center

Transforming Skin Health Through Expertise and Passion

New York City, New York Sep 17, 2024 (IssueWire.com) - A top professional in the field of dermatology, Dr. Johnson's clinical interests lie primarily in the detection and treatment of skin cancer, psoriasis, atopic dermatitis, rosacea, and acne, as well as the execution of dermatologic surgeries and cosmetic procedures including Botox and Aerolase laser treatments. Currently practicing at Virginia Dermatology and Skin Cancer Center in Virginia, he thrives on the diverse and complex nature of the skin conditions he encounters daily, stating, "No day is the same, which keeps things exciting and fun."

Coming from a family steeped in medical tradition, his passion for dermatology was ignited at a young age. His grandfather served as a dermatologist and his father currently serves as dermatologist, while his mother practices internal medicine, and his sister is a dermatology physician assistant.

Pertaining to his educational pursuits, Dr. Johnson earned his Bachelor of Science degree from Davidson College, where he distinguished himself not only academically but also as a Division I football player. After completing his undergraduate studies, he returned home to Norfolk, VA, to pursue his medical education at Eastern Virginia Medical School. There, he excelled in his dermatology residency, culminating in his role as Chief Resident during his final year.

An authority in his field, his commitment is underscored by his fellowships with both the American Academy of Dermatology and the American Society of Dermatologic Surgery. His extensive training and dedication to continuing education reflect his desire to provide the highest level of care to his patients.

Outside of his professional responsibilities, Dr. Johnson cherishes time spent with family and enjoys outdoor activities, including exploring with his dog, boating, and traveling.
