Las Vegas, Nevada Mar 5, 2025 (IssueWire.com) - Pet Madness Inc. is transforming the $350 billion pet industry with cutting-edge AI-powered software and hardware solutions, elevating the entire sector into a high-tech leader.

Alexa Elliot, CEO of Pet Madness Inc., explains, “Our family ran a pet retail store for 37 years, but like many small businesses, we lacked the financial resources and expertise to implement groundbreaking technology and AI systems needed to stay competitive and grow. This is a major challenge for many small businesses in the industry. Our goal is to bring top talent and disruptive technology to the pet industry—ensuring that everyone has access to these advancements by working together. If we unite, we can create something extraordinary—boosting revenue across the industry, generating leads from high-tech innovations and devices, and providing reciprocal opportunities that allow businesses to earn thousands, or even millions, in additional income from their existing customer base.”

The revelation will come at the Humanx AI Conference in Las Vegas, where Pet Madness will unveil the world’s first AI-driven pet ecosystem. This will enable reciprocal communication between pet owners and thousands of service providers, including pet brands, veterinarians, groomers, and boarding facilities. “We are honored to be invited to this groundbreaking event, where the leaders of AI and technology will come together,” said Alexa Elliot, CEO of Pet Madness Inc. “We look forward to forging new partnerships and introducing the AI industry to the world’s first pet-focused AI ecosystem—advancing our vision to integrate artificial intelligence into pet care and shaping the future of the industry.”

Pet Madness is partnering with leading companies across multiple industries to create new income streams for the pet industry, including travel, training, and more. With advanced AI integration, this interconnected ecosystem will revolutionize nearly every aspect of the global pet market. The Sparty AI system named after my dog who died of Seizures, will allow pet owners exclusive discounts on pet products and services they already use. It will provide support for their favorite brands and service providers through purchases that contribute to good causes. There will be AI-driven pet training advice and real-time recommendations for pet-friendly parks, trails, and beaches. Additionally, users can also get automatic reminders for tracking vet visits, vaccinations, and medications.

Every Sparty purchase helps fund pet rescues and veterinary care, supporting Pet Madness' mission to save over 2 million pets annually. The company is leading pet tech with patented innovations, including the world's first Charging Leash that charges smart collars and pet tech devices while walking the pet. Pet Madness offers the Matrix Smart Collar, an AI-powered collar with GPS, health monitoring, and virtual name tag. Users can also get designer Swarovski Crystal Collars and Leashes, now available to preorder. So, join the company to shape the future of pet care and save millions of pets annually.
