

CM Club Hosted Miami Fashion Brilliance Event in Miami

CM Club is an international platform that connects forward-thinking entrepreneurs, philanthropists and influencers.

Miami, Florida Oct 16, 2024 (IssueWire.com) - On September 28th, 2024, CM Club and Habitat Hyett successfully hosted the much-anticipated Miami Fashion Brilliance event. This exclusive gathering brought together designers, influential figures from the fashion and entertainment industries, artists, entrepreneurs, and innovators for an evening of networking, a fashion show, and insightful discussions on the future of sustainable fashion, emerging technologies, and the business of fashion. The event was held at the historic Art Deco building of the Habitat Hyett boutique in Miami Beach.

DESIGNER SHOW: CREATIVITY AND INNOVATION

One of the evening's key attractions was the Fashion Show, organized by Paul Marsell, founder of the Models Academy in Miami, alongside Timothy Strong, a wardrobe stylist and designer of Sacred Cloth Company. Their collaboration added an extra layer of excitement and creativity to the event.

The event featured a series of fashion shows. CM Club kicked off the showcase with a collection of one-size tops and elegant evening dresses. The tops, inspired by Asian fashion, feature unique designs that blend style and comfort, proudly made in Miami with Italian fabric.

The fashion show also highlighted Habitat Hyett's vintage evening dresses inspired by the colors of Paris Fashion Week alongside DeeDee Street Boutique's Burning Man-inspired collection and Sacred Cloth's stunning scarf line, complemented by hats designed by Ekaterina Abramova. Also, Ekaterina showcased her art, which features mirrors integrated into her paintings.

THE FASHION DESIGNERS EXTRAVAGANZA

Habitat Hyett showcased its "Magic City Muse" collection, which took attendees on a journey through time, celebrating fashion from the 1950s to the early 2000s. The collection featured stunning pieces that ranged from classic cocktail attire to chic, carefree designs inspired by the It-girls of the early 2000s, blending nostalgia with modern-day elegance.

Dee Dee Street Boutique presented an impressive collection focused on upcycled and eco-friendly fashion. The boutique's designs were a perfect example of how sustainable fashion can also be trendy and unique, proving that eco-conscious apparel doesn't have to sacrifice style.

The show concluded with a captivating presentation from Sacred Cloth Company, which introduced its collection of hand-painted garments that combined spirituality with fashion. Sacred Cloth's designs are not just about aesthetics; they carry a deeper meaning, reflecting the connection between God and fashion. The fashion collection show aimed at connecting God's written word to the fashion industry through stunning imagery inspired by His sacred messages.

Each design is a unique, hand-painted piece of art, not merely a digital template, crafted by a dedicated team of artists, strategists, and designers. To ensure high-quality details, the images were captured using a digital photographic scanning camera and printed on satin material.

FASHION PANEL

Fashion Panel, where leading industry figures offered their expert perspectives on entrepreneurship, sustainability, and innovation within the fashion industry. Moderated by celebrity host and actor Rick Sykes and Motivational Speaker Masha Nova. The panel discussion offered interesting ideas and valuable insights for attendees. Each speaker contributed their unique experience and wisdom:

- Lawrence Robins, a producer and entrepreneur for Oliana Inc. and Saks Fifth Avenue, recounted his story of how he propelled the Oliana brand to new heights.
- Ann Hyett, owner of Habitat Hyett, shared some fascinating insights about the recent fashion show.
- Alex Cohen, founder and CEO of Synkronized Films. He shared his journey and how he got started in film.
- Malachi Cooper, described the story of his groundbreaking venture to launch the first luxury fashion line on the moon, featuring a collection of custom-made physical heels, handbags. These unique designs were created using a 3D printer and were boldly launched on a rocket to the moon.
- Ruxanda Renita, co-founder of Urban Catalyst Lab, focused on the crucial role of sustainability in society and the need to raise awareness about it.
- Timothy Strong, designer and founder of Sacred Cloth Company, unfolded how his collection merges faith-based values with eco-fashion.

In addition to the fashion panel and designer show, the event offered ample opportunities for networking and business growth. Attendees, including designers, business professionals, and entrepreneurs, were able to engage in meaningful discussions about the future of sustainability in fashion and the role of technology in transforming the industry.

Conversations flowed freely throughout the Designer Pop-Up. The event wasn't just about showcasing fashion; it was about building connections between creatives and business minds. CM Club made sure that the event was designed to encourage collaboration, offering attendees an environment in which to explore potential partnerships and exchange ideas that could shape the future of their respective industries.

PAUL MARSELL'S WORKSHOP

Though the focus of the evening was primarily on the fashion panel and designer showcase, the event also featured a brief runway and posing Workshop led by Paul Marsell, founder of Miss Earth Mexico. Marsell shared his expertise in runway techniques, offering models valuable tips on posture, body language, and confidence. The workshop was designed to help models present themselves with grace and poise, skills that are as important on the runway as they are in the business world.
