

After the Fire: Restotech Water & Fire Damage Restoration Prepares to Roll Out in Wake of Los Angeles County Devastation

Wildfires in Pacific Palisades, Malibu, Hollywood Hills, Altadena, and more L.A. areas spur massive cleanup and recovery efforts. Restotech is ready for the long process.

Irvine, California Jan 12, 2025 (IssueWire.com) - Millions of Los Angeles County residents awoke or began their day on January 7 seeing images of a 200-acre wildfire burning in Pacific Palisades, west of L.A. By the next day, the fire was at 3,000 acres and raging through multiple cities.

As a local restoration provider with roots in Southern California since 1980, Restotech Water & Fire Damage Restoration Services stands ready to assist with cleanup and restoration efforts as those historic wildfires are contained and put out. Nearly 30,000 acres (47 square miles) and more than 2,000 homes or structures had burned as of January 9.

Restotech is ready to mobilize home and business owners for three types or levels of wildfire response: Total loss, partial burn, and intact home scenarios. Total-loss restoration services involve clearing a property of all debris damage, followed by a comprehensive design, engineering and rebuild. Architects, designers, and contractors specializing in custom-home construction are fully incorporated to create a new home that has the potential to be even better than the original.

Partial-burn restoration includes cleanup, smoke damage assessment, contents cleaning, deodorization, surface and structure repairs, and more. Wildfire victims can also rely on Restotech for an intact-home response. This often includes extensive smoke damage, even if their home was not directly impacted by the flames. We will restore contents, repaint, replace flooring and drywall, clean attics, replace ventilation and ducts, and more.

“Maybe a home is still standing after a wildfire, and you might assume it’s not very damaged,” Restotech company president Tony Esla said. “But smoke and soot damage penetrate any porous surface and cause significant damage. What you might not see can be more damaging than you think.”

Restotech will be ready to assist affected residents in Los Angeles areas that include Pacific Palisades, Hollywood, Malibu, Topanga Canyon, Altadena, Pasadena, Santa Monica, Azusa, Glendale, Arcadia, and Monrovia – among its other customers in Los Angeles, Orange and Riverside Counties.

Upon being contacted, Restotech Water & Fire Damage Restoration is set to dispatch Emergency Response and Assessment teams and prioritize the most immediate responses. Cleanup after fire suppression, debris clearance, soot and ash removal, and more will begin after the assessment phase, with insurance claim support ongoing.

Our team has the training and experience to check for structural issues, potential electrical or gas hazards, and occupant and worker safety, which always warrant close attention, as does Restotech's thorough assessment of fire, smoke, water, structural, surface, and contents damage.

With decades of experience helping property owners navigate various California disasters, Restotech is ready to provide physical restoration, as well as listen, offer guidance, and lend extra hands in a long recovery. Those affected by the wildfires need hope, confidence and their burdens eased. For them, Restotech has the necessary patience, expertise, and sense of urgency.

“What’s happened here is heartbreaking,” Tony said. “We understand the emotional toll that wildfires can take, and we want to provide the most compassionate and empathetic service. We’re ready to help you in any way we can. In times like these, it can be difficult to know where to start or not to be overwhelmed. We want to help you get through this.”

The post-wildfire journey could be long, and Restotech Water & Fire Damage Restoration is proud to support Pacific Palisades and L.A. County in the rebuilding process and help both return to normalcy.
