Through his brand, Takala Land Entertainment, Lee is set to showcase his signature blend of original dance, hip-hop music, fashion, and traditional Chinese culture, offering audiences a refreshing and unforgettable experience. The stage production will bring together renowned guest vocalists and dance artists from the global industry, highlighting the boundless creativity of the arts.

About Ziyin Lee

Ziyin Lee has been a pivotal figure in New York's performing arts community, curating flagship events and making history with his landmark performances at Carnegie Hall and Lincoln Center. Growing up immersed in New York's hip-hop culture, Lee has built an extraordinary career as a performer, choreographer, and educator. From 2018 to 2024, he was re-elected as an NBA stage performer at Barclays Center, serving as a guest performer and choreographer. He made history as the first-ever artist to present a hip-hop dance special at Carnegie Hall. In 2023, he won Best Dance Music Video at the International New York Film Festival. Additionally, he serves as a senior instructor for the China Street Dance Youth National Team and has created numerous self-directed original music works, including NingKong, Love Department, and Will Power.

Lee has also contributed to the international dance scene as a judge for street dance competitions in the USA and China. He represented New York's street dance community at the Bridge of the Future China-U.S. Youth Exchange Program and has performed as a guest artist at the China CBA Basketball Professional League. His achievements also include winning the Popping Dance Competition in Pennsylvania, USA.
